Received of Mr. H. Chapman

Dear Sir,

We are in receipt of your letter, the 11th inst., concerning the receipt of the car, that we are now on our way to comply with your request. The car is absolutely remarkably located. There is nothing in the description that would lead to believe it is in good condition, and we certainly have not the least hesitation in asserting that the coin is absolutely genuine, it has passed through two famous Collections and was not challenged in either case. Had the coin been in fine condition we should have made a statement to the effect in the catalogue, someone else valued it at £13 (thirteen pounds) and offered that amount for it in the Room but at this distance of time we cannot remember who it was.

You must also please remember as we charge no commission for meeting we absolutely decline to take any responsibility in connection with them, we at all times to our best and sad consolation anything as to condition we probably should not have bought the coin for you.

We return the coin enclosed

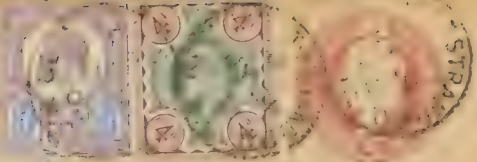

Very sincerely,

Yours faithfully

Dear Sirs,

We are in receipt of your letter of the 10th inst., and may point out to you that had you taken the very ordinary precaution of instructing us to bring the coin in dispute only if in fair or good condition you would have been saved the annoyance you have suffered.

We cannot help saying that nearly the whole of your letter is very much beside the mark, and we are

You choose to assume that which you had no right to assume you therefore argue that our system of cataloguing is wrong. You must not forget that the law in England is 'caveat emptor'.
One cataloguer described the coin in the Montagu catalogue but a totally different man catalogued it this summer.

We do not know what the issue may be in "every other country in the world" and we do not feel concerned to know, and we fear that at present at all events we cannot change our present style of cataloguing.

Messrs. J. H. & V. Chapman.

Dear Sirs,

We were unable to buy the remaining coin on the Hurdock Sale they all went reserved for bidding, we have not yet had a suitable opportunity of disposing of the Carolina piece.
We have carefully considered the matter of the date of the sale of the Hurdock American and Colonial Coins and at representation

Your recommendation have postponed it to July 20th and following days, we cannot possibly make it later than this as our season ends on July 31st.

Very respectfully

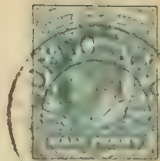

Yours truly
